interventional study lasted for one month and no assessment or measurements of participant adherence were made. There is some evidence for poor adherence to prescribed medications due to inadequate counseling, complexity of regimens, and lack of adequate follow-up \[@B15\]. The use of self-report or cross-sectional measures of adherence, even when validated, can result in many systematic errors \[@B16\]. Some evidence suggests that the degree of persistence improves adherence and possibly health outcomes; therefore, adherence levels should be further studied using both objective and subjective measures \[@B17\]. Although we observed a statistically significant change between baseline and final visits, the change was not clinically significant. This study may have been underpowered to detect a clinically meaningful difference. Our participants completed self-reported questionnaire measures; therefore, the observed changes were a result of self-reported behaviors rather than performance of behaviors which could have more clinical significance. To further assess the impact of this program, a clinician- or pharmacist-observed adherence measure, such as Medication Events Monitoring System, would have been more helpful \[\[

... How to download all the pages of pdf and rename all of them to the same file name?

A: What you're asking, I'm afraid, is not possible. The closest equivalent is to export the first page of the file as a new file. You can then copy the new file to the required location. A: I would suggest doing it the easy way and going into the program's web interface. Step 1 - get your information in one place - you ask: "How to download all the pages of pdf and rename all of them to the same file name?" Step 2 - create a new folder that you will save your pdf's to, then copy all the pdf's into that folder. Step 3 - open a new web browser and go to the program's web interface at Step 4 - if you want your information in a more organized manner, at the bottom right, there is a menu - there should be "Manage Templates" on it, or something similar. Click the "New" button to create a new template. Step 5 - Name your new template. Pick a location in the Files/PDFs that you will save the templates you create to. You could also go into the PDF's properties in WordPad or another PDF reader and you can select where you would like the file to be saved. Step 6 - the very last step is to create your PDF's. Step 7 - click where it says "Create PDF" and you can pick the template you created. You can then go back into step 4 and use your new template and save the new pdf. You can then copy the newly created pdf to the location you want. Very close but too much competition for the Eurofighter. Eurofighter sales declined from 90 in 2000 to 25 in 2005. Eurofighter sales will be about 100 by 2015. Also, the Eurofighter hasn't been developed as an export platform, it's been assembled in Spain in a bunch of different places, and there are still issues with the Tiger engines and software. Typhoon sales have increased from 100 in 2002 to 70 in 2005, and will be 90 by 2015. If you've been paying attention to the F-35 program it's really been an unholy mess so far. The first F-35 contract was the most ridiculous deal, the
