When I was originally setting up my laptop for the first time, I decided I didn't want a printer. There are a lot of reviews of printers on the web, and it seemed like it would be a good idea to use one. Sadly, when I added the printer, Windows would not allow me to connect. It said that it would try to connect within the next few minutes, but as of now, that hasn't happened. I'm surprised that there's not one other option other than use a network...
